The Objective of the Project

The objective of this study is to reveal significant and long-forgotten developments, institutions, people, relationships and events that played significant roles in development of tourism sector in the Republic Period of Turkey through oral history method. It is an unfortunate fact that many investors, operators, ministers, counsellors, specialists, tour guides and travel agency owners, who played significant roles in development of tourism sector, have been passing away in recent years. One of the objectives of this study is to get across the events, their experiences and the developments about tourism that were only witnessed by those people to the next generations and the future researchers.

While the history of oral history studies dates back to 1940s in many developed countries throughout the world, the oral history studies in Turkey have started as late as the 1990s. The studies conducted in this field are small-scale and specific studies, and the data obtained could only be evaluated through articles and abstracts and there are very few examples regarding the archiving of oral history interviews as full texts. Aside from a couple of small-scale examples, there are not any oral history studies in the field of tourism, which comprise the entire tourism sector.

This study aims to reveal the occult history of tourism sector in our country. The significance of the information obtained would be better understood, given the fact that tourism sector is a broad economic and social area with its sub-sectors, and considering its dimensions by its economic, social, cultural and even political influences and results.
